This process allows for legislation to get through the 100-seat Senate with only 51 votes rather than the filibuster-proof level of 60, and it has been used for major partisan measures such as the 2017 Tax Cuts and Jobs Act, the 2021 American Rescue Plan Act and the 2022 Inflation Reduction Act. The GOP is set to have at least 52 Senate seats next year, with three Senate races yet to be called. In any upcoming tax-focused reconciliation package, Republicans will probably focus on delivering "an...
